About Partners Results Events News English

With the online guide we aim to provide an environment to help people with special needs, their family members and caregivers to readjust life by making life outside accessible as much as possible. Because even if there is information provided by the state or private organizations it is not easy to navigate and most of the time these institutions are not connected to each other in terms of the services they provide.

This online guide provides hopefully an easy access to existing offers in local areas and nationwide and information for immediate needs for example in education, health and job or hobby. In these terms it will be an innovative instrument for people with disability for engaging civic activities and at the same time being aware of the options to improve their qualifications and thus their levels of employability and integration into the labour market.
